An Integrated Approach to Improve Maternal Mental Health and Well-Being During the COVID-19 Crisis

Presented by: Brooke DiPetrillo, 2CI Doctoral Fellow

Zoom – Tuesday, March 9 – 1:00-2:00pm ET

The ongoing COVID-19 pandemic has led to disruption of normal life across the globe, severely affecting the already vulnerable populations such as pregnant women. Maternal mental health and well-being is a public health priority and the evidence about the impact of COVID-19 on the mental health status of pregnant women is gradually emerging.
